LICENSE INSPECTOR HODGKINS GETS BUMPED IN COLEMAN POLICE COURT

Deliberately Violates Criminal Code to Get Evidence and Even at That Half His Cases Tried So Far Have Gone Against Him—Gets Peeved at Magistrate.

There was considerable excitement in this part of The Pass on Saturday evening when it became known that officials of the Provincial liquor license department had "raided" a number of places and had laid charges of illegally selling liquor, or having liquor in their possession, against merchants, fraternal societies and private individuals.

As a result of this unexpected visit Julia Richards appeared before Magistrate Disney on Tuesday and was fined $100 and costs; Marie Alexander, more familiarly known locally as "Big Mary," was assessed $250 and costs, it being her second offence; the charge against A. Panquin was dismissed; a charge of having liquor in their possession preferred against the Italian Co-Operative Association was remanded till Thursday, while similar charges against Ferdinand Thery and the local Order of Owls were remanded till November 30th.

The raids were made by a couple of "spotters" of foreign birth, under the direction of License Inspector Hodgkins, and while such activities on the part of the officials is always denounced by some people, yet it is seldom that a whole community becomes aroused as Coleman is over the officials on this occasion.

We wish it to be thoroughly understood, however, that The Bulletin has no word of sympathy, much less of defence, for the man or group of men who illegally sell or handle booze in any manner. They all know perfectly well what the law is in that respect and if they violate that law they should be made to stand the consequences.

No quarter should be given. But, on the other hand, it would be partially impossible for this paper to remain silent concerning the work of this outfit on Saturday evening in face of existing public feeling, and the facts.

In the case of Panquin, from the evidence submitted it appears that the "spotters," a couple of ignorant boobies or dingbats who do not know what the word principle stands for, spent several days ingratiating themselves with Panquin and his family.

They then visited the residence, coerced and wheeled liquor from their hosts, then repeatedly urged their acceptance of money for it, after which they laid the information. Anything more contemptible would be pretty hard to imagine. Panquin has never before been suspected of selling liquor, his friends declare emphatically that he certainly never thought of such a thing, and after having gratified the thirst of this particular pair of sneaks, he refused repeatedly to take payment and only did so apparently because it was so persistently urged. No wonder the magistrate threw the case out. Later one of the sneaks openly declared that he would spend thousands of dollars to convict Panquin, and that he would certainly appeal the case. His one idea apparently was to get a conviction and make a showing before his superior officers regardless of justice to anyone.

Then, in the matter of the raid on the Owls' hall. This organization meets in the room that is used by every fraternal society in the town, and the different orders have their own lockers. When this pair of dingbats from the license inspector's office got into the room they broke open every locker in the place—Masons', Oddfellows', Eagles', K. of P's, and even the Rebekah's, scattering the contents about promiscuously. If they had wanted to search these lockers, they could easily have done so in a decent sort of way, but they seem to have chosen the coarsest method possible.

The Bulletin has no criticism to offer for the activity of the license department in its attempt to curtail illegal booze selling, we do not say a word about the stool pigeon or spotter methods employed—though we have our own opinions—but we do maintain that the business of the license branch to STOP the illegal sale of liquor, not to ENCOURAGE it as was done in Panquin's case, merely that some lampoons to pay the penny dollar dangled before the human race may be able to show a larger number of "convictions" to credit.

Usually, when evidence is sought concerning any criminal case of importance—murder, theft, etc., none but the most intelligent and capable detectives are employed, and these seem to make good as a rule, but the license department of the Province of Alberta seems to have a different method. We have had occasion before to refer to the work of those dubs in The Pass, and have always wondered why it is that this particular department almost invariably seeks to secure its evidence through the dirty, mean and contemptible work of such parasites as one Wiley, whom our readers will remember in connection with the Coleman hotel fiasco a year or two ago, and why it is that "spotters" are permitted to entice citizens to break the law in order that a conviction may be secured. Has the department not sufficient ability at its command to get its information decently? Can it not secure the services of men who, when it is necessary to enter a residence or other place, can be depended to do so in an honorable way? Or is the department so badly balled up that the chief officers do not know what their hirings are doing? Certainly there is something wrong and whoever was responsible for the fiasco here last week should be given a job among the white wings at Edmonton—which would be more suited to their degree of intelligence.

A skunk is honest in that it never travels under false colors, nor will the dirtiest yellow dog in the street snap at the hand that feeds it—but the "spotters" did both these things at Panquin's.

The case against the Italian Co-Operative Association was dismissed by Magistrate Disney on Thursday forenoon, there being no evidence.

TO INCREASE THE AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION

An Association of Farmers and Business Men Whose Aim will Be to Disseminate Knowledge of the Most Approved Farming Methods, and to Secure Greater Efficiency

A committee of Canadian agriculturists were induced to make a trip to North Dakota to investigate the work of agricultural instruction reported carried on by the U.S. government. Mr. Geo. A. Merrick, of Winnipeg, has sent us their report, showing the result of their investigation, which is as follows:

Dear Sir,—The members of the committee selected to visit North Dakota and investigate at first hand the results of the Field Agent System of agricultural instruction, reported. The aim of your committee was to obtain as much information as possible from the farmers themselves in districts where the system is in operation, and through the courtesy of Mr. Thomas Cooper, of the North Dakota Agricultural Experiment Station, and Mr. F. R. Crane, executive commissioner of the Northern Railway, we were enabled to spend three whole days mooring and interviewing farmers in the country tributary to Valley City, in the eastern part of the state. Much of the time was spent on the return journey, in the Grand Forks, where we were also afforded an opportunity at each place to discuss with numerous bankers and business men the question of the results being accomplished, and no effort was spared to make the investigation a thorough one.

It is our unanimous opinion that the better farming campaign being conducted in North Dakota is proving successful in a remarkable manner, and is rapidly creating conditions which will ensure an enormous increase in the production of the staple crops, as well as contribute to a material improvement of the social conditions of farm life. From an investigation of the reports, we can conclude that the expenditures thereon will be returned a hundredfold through increase of agricultural products.

We are further of the opinion that the experience of North Dakota, conducted in conjunction with the history of agricultural progress in other parts of North America, serves to establish conclusively that the attainment of a thoroughly satisfactory development of the agricultural industry of a new country requires that there shall exist—as auxiliary to the departments of agricultural and experimental farms—a Field Agent organization staff of field men to carry in formation to the farmers on their own farms.

As a natural consequence of the unparalleled rapidity of the settlement of Western Canada, in the last few years we have admittedly an unusually large percentage of settlers whose knowledge of farming is practically nil, and it is therefore an obvious deduction that the result, which could be looked for from an efficient system of field men, would be proportionately greater here than in North Dakota.

The necessity for an organized movement to increase largely agricultural production in the prairie provinces by greater efficiency of methods is now widely recognized, and we cannot urge too strongly that steps be taken without delay to inaugurate the Field Agent System here, as the most effective means of accomplishing the desired result. We think it well to add that in our opinion a movement along the lines recommended, in order to obtain the maximum good, should take the form of a combination of the Farmers' Association, and the Agricultural Extension Service, to co-operate with the department of agriculture. We are not losing sight of the fact that the department of agriculture in all three of our prairie provinces are already doing excellent extension work, but they are, however, somewhat hampered by lack of funds, and it is our conviction that the organization of a Field Agent System should be set on foot on a scale sufficient to demonstrate effectively its value with the least possible loss of time.

We attach a draft covering our suggestions for the formation of an Association of Farming and Business, respectfully submitted.

Name: "Association of Farming and Business."
Form of Organization: An association to be incorporated by private act.

| Total                                       | 42 |
- And six others to be selected by the foregoing, 13 in all, to form a quorum.
Directors: The affairs of the association to be administered by a board of nine directors, of which three to be appointed by the minister of agriculture and six by the general council.

Britain Not War Mad An Aeroplane Gave Warning

A Representative Englishman's Point of View

Benjamin Harris, recording clerk in the New York Clearing office, received from his uncle, Professor I. H. Hirsch, lecturer on physics and mathematics at the University of London, a letter giving the representative Englishman's point of view and attitude towards the German after the months of war. The letter, dated at Hillel House, Cambridge, England, says in part:

You ask me to give my impression of present conditions. To my mind the most striking feature of the situation is still the general absence of vindictiveness or even contempt for the German people. Englishmen are just as much as the hundreds of thousands, and not in the "jingo" spirit. You will perhaps remember the type of man who meets a frequently the Englishman and Yorkshire—the old Puritan type—the man who goes to his work with the sense of his dominion, doing his work thoroughly, not necessarily because he likes it, but because his job is to be done. But few or none like the job, but the job is there to be done.

It appears to be beyond the mental powers of a German to understand this. To him, apparently, war is a part of religion, a duty, a duty which cannot be understood. A nation should go to war because it is part of its religion, the worship of Mars, the war god. It is fortunate for Germany that England is English. England have not lost the blood of the country were really struck with the lust for German blood. The responsibility for the war is not in Germany, but in the German people. Personally, I am praying that the Germans will have sense enough not to repeat such a mistake as the attack on Scarborough.

Behind all this grim struggle in England there is a feeling that German flesh and blood are still human, and, therefore, they do wish to inflict the most suffering on German women and children than is necessary. For years the German people have been making England to listen, and will see their proper place is by our side and not in opposition to us. You have seen the English temperament. German beyond redemption treat the report with contempt. We cannot crush Germany with our own hands. The enemy is not Germany, but autocracy.

Professor Hirsch says that the English people are not committed to the war, but are committed to the war of their own free will. Many an adult warrior in the British Isles, first knew he was wanted when he received a letter from the military authorities. The emergency substitution work of the war was more necessary than ever. Hundreds of Scouts took their place in the army. They were staying out all night or watching all day through big telescopes for the enemy's ships.

The London Journalist who confessed that a lump came into his throat when late one night he met a Scout, laden with bivouac gear, and moving quietly through the dark to their vigil on the cliffs.

Loans for Seed Grain

Amendment is to be made to Bank Act For Benefit of Farmers
The Hon. W. L. White, finance minister, has given notice of an important amendment to the Bank Act as far as farmers of Western Canada are concerned. The amendment, which is in temporary and will only be in force until Aug. 1, will permit banks to loan money for the purchase of seed grain on the security of the grain produced.

The bill is to be grown from such seed and the grain threshed from such crops. At present banks cannot loan money for the purchase of seed grain on the security of the grain produced. The resolution is as follows: "Resolved, that it is expedient to amend the Bank Act by permitting the chartered banks up to the first day of August, 1915, to lend money for the purchase of seed grain on the security of the grain produced from such crops, and that any act founded on this resolution to be deemed to have come into force on March 15, 1915."

Recruiting Story From Wales

The following is a story of a recruit from a telegram: "Heartiest congratulations, Kitchener." This was duly shown round, and morning his pride in his country on receiving the royal message: "The empire is proud of you, George." The recruit, who is a Welshman, said: "For God's sake, keep neutral—Wilhelm, he began to see that the Germans were about."

HOW THE SUEZ CANAL IS KEPT OPEN

Millions of Feet of Dredging in a Year
Since 1858 something like $5,000,000 has been expended upon the dredging and improvement of the Suez Canal. When first opened the channel had a uniform depth of 25 feet. It is now 40 feet deep at the bottom, and 450 feet at the water level. It is still being deepened and widened. The Suez Canal is kept open by the dredging of the bottom. A writer in the London Magazine, a whole fleet of dredges are continually at work, mainly keeping the channel free from sand. We get some

SEVERE SITUATION FOR GERMANY IF SHE FAILS

THEY SUPPLY NEARLY ALL THE WAR MATERIAL

Persistent Reports that Germany is Running Short of Shot and Shell, and Should the Essen Firm Fail to Keep up with the Demand, it Might Bring about the End of the War

Germany's most vulnerable point may be expressed in a single word—Krupp.
There is also plenty of evidence that Krupp-manufactured munitions are by no means so superior as many people have been led to believe, and we know, too, that the "colossus of armament firms" has been mixed up in a number of scandals.

As a matter of fact, the capacity of the Essen works for Krupp works is not nearly so great as the aggregate capacity of Britain's five most important armament firms. Reports that Germany is running short of shot and shell are persistent, and are likely enough to be true, and it is notorious that Germany is making frantic efforts to secure supplies of metal by any means and at any price.

There is also plenty of evidence that Krupp-manufactured munitions are by no means so superior as many people have been led to believe, and we know, too, that the "colossus of armament firms" has been mixed up in a number of scandals. Founded at Essen 162 years ago as a factory for the production of "English cast steel," and employing only seven workmen in 1848, Krupp is now the supreme test now being applied Krupp's may fall the fardier.

As an individual, the extent of the Essen works, it may be mentioned that the plant is served by eighty miles of private railway. The traffic between the works and the Prussian state system average between fifty and sixty trains daily. The Essen works employ 70,000, of whom 35,000 are in the Essen steel works. The Essen steel works, capitalised at $5,000,000, have been absorbed into the Essen works, bringing the combined share and loan capital of Krupp up to $71,500,000.

W. L. Guinette received a telegram from Ottawa this week advising him that his son, Charlie, had been severely wounded on November 15th, and was suffering from shell wounds and severe concussion. A wire from Charlie the same day conveyed the information that he was on the ill-fated steamer Angola crossing the channel but was fortunately among the rescued. He is now at Leicester, in England, and his wounds are not such as to render his recovery uncertain. Charlie was one of the first to go to the front from Coleman and every person in the district wish him a speedy recovery and safe return to his friends.

Out of the funds of the Rockefeller foundation, the Rockefeller family is contributing millions of dollars to relieve the suffering in Belgium. At the same time German cannon trucks, commissary wagons and omnibuses are being driven a out Belgium with which the Rockefeller family is connected is quite unable to shut off as he is to direct funds to the relief. Some day this industry of the thing called business, which makes such an anomaly as this occurrence scarcely worthy notice will be in its way and proper light. When that time comes Canadians will not mine nickel to touch the rifles, the rifles, the rifles will not build cruisers for Austria and cannon-makers will not be allowed to junked from one country to another subsidizing the press to promote the war frenzy whilst they load the nations with the implements of murder.

The Saturday issue of a Calgary paper contained a lengthy story on the coal situation in the Province and among other things it was therein stated that there was not a single mine in Alberta that was not running at full capacity at the present time; that the mines of the Crows Nest Pass were running full time and "clamoring for more men." The story was wrong on many points, and the writer of it should drop into Coleman and see the crowd of men around the International Co. offices every afternoon seeking work, and also note the fact that out of a battery of over two hundred cook ovens, scarcely a third are burning. Hillcrest mine has a capacity of 2,000 tons per day and they are now mining 7,000 tons per week—and are not clamoring for more men. Bellevue mine has a capacity of 2,000 tons a day and it is running full time and has places for thirty good miners. Frank mine has a capacity of 1,000 tons a day and is putting out 700 tons and does not want any more men. The Blairmore mine has a capacity of 400 tons and it is running full capacity, but does not want any more men. In Coleman the International day but is mining much less than that amount as the demand on such offices are many more men seeking work here than are needed. At Carbondale, the McGillivray mine is running full time, but it is not clamoring for more men. It will thus be noted that in all The Pass, there is only a total of thirty men asked for and they could be easily supplied from among the unemployed at Coleman alone, though the latter seem to prefer to take a chance on getting work at home later on. The principal objection to stories such as that printed in Calgary is the fact that they usually cause men in other parts of the country to flock to the point where work is reported to be plentiful and frequently become a burden on such community. It is to be hoped that the newspaper referred to will correct the wrong impression it has inadvertently given in this respect, for it can rest assured that there is no wild, frantic clamor for men in the Crows Nest Pass—nor is their likely to be for some time to come. Business men down here are only sorry that such is not the case.

To the Editor of The Bulletin:

Dear Sir,—Hearing that there is going to be a patriotic meeting at the opera house on Sunday afternoon, conducted by our M. P. P., Robt. E. Campbell, and Dr. Kirby, of Mount Royal College, Calgary, I would suggest that the name of our boys from Coleman who have answered the call be included in some conspicuous manner if possible; also that any of them on leave of absence or furlough in town be specially invited to attend. What our grand fellows are prepared to do has been exemplified this week by the fact that one of our very own men has been mentioned in despatches for conspicuous bravery in action. I refer to John McAlpine, whom a greater number of us have known for years. We know that every Coleman man in uniform is prepared to do his share, and I do hope our townspeople will let the wives, children, ren, parents and relatives of our own soldiers know their appreciation of their sacrifice for us by turning up and taking part in some way in the display.
